

1.2 Regular full-time jobs by type of establishment

1.2.1 Summary by type of establishment

What types of establishments employ Nunavik's labour force? Are the main employers in the public or private sector? Table 1.2 shows the breakdown of regular full-time jobs by type of establishment for the three surveys conducted by the Employment and Training Department.

In 2005, of the 3189 people working full-time in Nunavik, 1195 were employed by private businesses and co-operatives, 1660 by public and para-public organizations, and 334 by non-profit organizations.

The number of jobs at provincial and federal institutions which had decreased a lot in the nineties kept going down with other agreements signed by Kativik Regional Government and the provincial and federal governments in various fields (airports, income support, justice, parks, wildlife protection, etc.). So positions have transferred from the provincial and federal levels to the regional and local levels. Furthermore, the provincial public group in the table 1.2 includes Hydro-Québec jobs because this public company was the only one of this type.
